The Jaguars ROAR and Airlie Down performed for troops in the Western Hemisphere.

Washington, D.C. (July 7, 2011) – Armed Forces Entertainment sent the Jacksonville Jaguars ROAR and rock band Airlie Down on an overseas tour to entertain our troops stationed in the Western Hemisphere. The cheerleaders and band mates performed, signed autographs, posed for pictures and extended their gratitude to the men and women in uniform.

Airlie Down is a nationally touring, independent rock band based out of Raleigh, NC. Having played more than 300 shows in 30 states in the past two years from the East to the West coast and gaining radio airplay in North and South America, Europe, Australia and Asia, the band prides themselves on their hard work, relentless attitude and high energy live show.

As professional cheerleaders, The ROAR captivate Jaguars fans with their explosive, high-energy routines. When not on the playing field, members of cheerleading squad serve as goodwill ambassadors for the Jaguars by participating in various community, corporate and charitable events nationally and internationally.
